Dismiss Du Pont Antitrust Suit

U.S. Failed To Prove Monopoly Conspiracy

CHICAGO (AP)—A federal judge Friday dismissed the government's biggest anti-trust case.

U.S. Dist. Judge Walter J. LaBuy held the Department of Justice lawyers had failed to prove accusations of conspiracy, monopoly and restraint of trade in a civil suit against E. I. du Pont de Nemours & Co., members of the Du Pont family General Motors Corp., United States Rubber Co., and three holding companies of the Du Pont family.

The book value of stock holdings owned by the defendants was estimated by the government several months ago at more than six billion dollars. It has increased since then.

In a 35-minute summation of his 220-page decision before a capacity courtroom crowd which included the 46 lawyers who took part in 102 days of trial, Judge LaBuy said:

"The government has failed to prove conspiracy, monopolization, a restraint of trade, or any reasonable probability of a restraint, and for these reasons, the amended complaint should be dismissed."

In its original complaint, filed in 1949, the government charged that the Du Pont family interests had used their large holdings of General Motors and U.S. Rubber stock to make captive markets for Du Pont products of the big auto and rubber manufacturing concerns.

It asked that the Du Pont interests be ordered to sell their General Motors and U.S. Rubber stocks. The government said the Du Ponts held 23 per cent of General Motors' stock and 17 per cent of that issued by U.S. Rubber.

Defense attorneys contended that the stock in both firms was held because both stocks were good investments. All charges relating to monopoly or restraint of trade were denied.

The suit was brought under provisions of the Sherman and Clayton Antitrust Acts. Judge LaBuy held that neither law had been violated, and there was "no need . . . to discuss legal principles or precedents."

"The essence of the conspiracy and restraint which the government finally charged and sought to prove in this case," Judge LaBuy said, "is the alleged limitation upon General Motors' ability to deal as it pleased with competitors of Du Pont and United States Rubber."

He said the record of the trial showed "the extent to which General Motors enjoyed complete freedom of action with respect to specific products manufactured by Du Pont and United States Rubber, and with respect to its discoveries and developments of new products."

Earl A. Jinkinson, head of the Midwest office of the government antitrust division, said he and his staff will make a recommendation on whether or not to appeal after studying the opinion for a week or so.

BAG 16,996 PHEASANTS
SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (P)—Six Illinois public pheasant areas played host to 12,558 hunters during the recently-closed two week season, the State Conservation Department said Friday.

Each hunter took an average of 1.35 birds for a total bag of 16,996.

ON THE JOB

U.S. Bows To World Court Orders To Pay Fired U.N. Employees

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (P)—The United States bowed Friday to a World Court decision upholding payment by the U. N. of $179,420 in damages to 11 American staff members fired after U. S. loyalty inquiries.

Sen. James W. Fulbright (D-Ark.), representing the United States in the Budget Committee here, voiced the administration stand that the United States still dissented from the view that the fired personnel ought to be paid or that the U. N. Assembly had to follow without question the rulings of the U. N. administrative tribunal.

Then Fulbright added: "My delegation is prepared to respect the authority and competence of the International Court of Justice. Therefore, having stated our legal views with particular reference to the various opinions of the judges of the court, we believe it should not be necessary to renew arguments which were fully heard before the court."

Some congressmen and some organizations have voiced opinions that the wage indemnities should not be paid.

The court at The Hague ruled 9-3 last July that the General Assembly had no right to refuse to pay any awards ordered by the U. N. administrative tribunal if a staff member was fired and appealed.

Fulbright told the committee that the discharged employees were fired "after they refused to answer questions put to them by competent investigative authorities of the U. S. government."

"The questions related to membership in the Communist party or subversive activities against the United States. The staff members pleaded that under the Fifth Amendment to the U. S. Constitution they were privileged not to answer because the answers might tend to incriminate them."

Hammarskjold and former Secretary General Trygve Lie refused the employees to the administrative tribunal and the cash awards plus back salaries were ordered on appeals.

The biggest single award was ordered to Jack Harris, 42, former Trustee Council clerk on Africa and wartime OSS "cloak and dagger" agent, who was awarded $40,000.

HUSBAND-POISONER'S MOTHER DIED OF POISON
LEXINGTON, N. C. (P)—A toxicologist reported Friday that the body of Mrs. Lou E. Hazel, mother of husband-poisoner Mrs. Nannie Doss, contained a lethal dose of arsenic.

Mrs. Doss, 49, has admitted in Tulsa, Oklahoma, that she poisoned four of her five husbands. She has been charged with murdering three.

Dr. David E. Plummer, Davidson County coroner, said she also will be charged with murdering Mrs. Hazel.

College Dean Gets Song, Dance Role In Big Time Show

WASHINGTON (P)—The dean of women at American University is taking a leave of absence to play a song and dance role in a musical comedy.

"Making the decision was a little difficult," Marguerite Shaw confessed Friday. "I was a little worried about the reaction in the supposedly austere academic circles."

But, she added with a bright smile, "the reaction wasn't at all like that. Everybody wished me well. Academic circles aren't as austere as you'd imagine."

Miss Shaw, a resident of South Paris, Me., has never before acted professionally. She did dramatic work at Bates College in Maine and played for two seasons with a Little Theater group in Portland, Me.

But she's all signed up, nevertheless, to go on a nationwide tour as Mabel, the bookkeeper, in the national company of "The Pajama Game," a musical which has been playing to full houses on Broadway.

"I'm a little surprised—a little overwhelmed," Miss Shaw said. "But I know it'll be fun."

Her great thespian opportunity was provided by her sister, Reta Shaw, who is playing Mabel in the Broadway play now. Reta told the producers they have trouble casting the role and Marguerite suggested — "facetiously," she said — that she'd try out.

Sure enough she did and sure enough she landed the part. It's a comedy part with one big song and dance number. "I'm a little young for the part," Miss Shaw said. "The woman is 30 or 60 and I'll have to gray my hair."

Miss Shaw sidestepped a direct question about her age. She looked to be about 35. A plump smiling woman, she has been associate dean of students at American University for a year and a half.

Marguerite's long-range future is a bit unpredictable. She said she wasn't sure whether she'd try to follow in her sister's footsteps. Reta, who plays Aunt Lil on the television show, "Mr. Peepers," has appeared on Broadway previously in "Picnic" and "Gentlemen Prefer Blondes."

"The university is giving me a leave of absence," said Miss Shaw. "It wouldn't be fair for me to commit myself now. The acting bug may get me good. But the probability is that I'll be back here at the end of my leave of absence."

Sheppard's Brother Admits Part Of Testimony False

CLEVELAND (P)—Dr. Stephen Sheppard, under still stiff cross-examination Friday, was forced to take back some of his testimony in defense of his young brother's life.

After trying to justify testimony he gave earlier in the day about Marilyn Sheppard's July 4 murder, Dr. Steve finally was forced to admit:

"That is not true."

On that note, the trial recessed for its 8th weekend, leaving the jury with the mental image of the dapper, 34-year-old Dr. Steve twisting and turning verbally as a defense witness for his brother, Dr. Samuel Sheppard.

Earlier, Dr. Steve had been forced to back down on a statement that anyone who ever suffered a brain concussion temporarily lost his memory of recent events. He conceded the statement was too broad.

The testimony would have helped the defense explain Dr. Sam's varying version of the slaying of his pregnant, 31-year-old wife. He is on trial for his life in her murder.

Condemn '52 Check Of McCarthy Mail, Urge Investigation

WASHINGTON (P)—A special Senate committee Friday strongly condemned a 1952 checkup on Sen. McCarthy's mail, and urged a Justice Department investigation.

The Senate cannot act on the committee's recommendation until it returns in January.

The committee concluded after a one-day closed door hearing that the mail check, which is described as a postoffice investigation technique designed "to aid in the apprehension of fugitives from justice," was set in motion by the rubber-stamped signature of Sen. Hennings (D-Mo.).

It said it was convinced this was done without Hennings' knowledge or consent.

The committee, composed of Sens. Ferguson (R-Mich.) and George (D-Ga.), said it was unable to determine who was responsible for affixing Hennings' facsimile signature to letters to postmasters ordering the mail check. But it said the letters were "initialed" by Paul J. Cotten, who was chief counsel to a Senate Elections subcommittee which was investigating McCarthy's finances, and that the idea was put into effect by staff investigators under Cotten's instructions.

Cotten, a former FBI agent now on the staff of the House Government Operations Committee, has said there was nothing illegal about the use of mail checks by committees. Under such a check postal authorities make a note of the names and addresses of people sending mail to a certain person.

Admits Killing Wife, Burning Body In Furnace

MILWAUKEE (P)—Raymond Wilson said he killed his invalid wife and told her, "Goodbye sweetheart."

Then the 65-year-old butcher hacked her to death with a meat cleaver, dismembered her body and burned the remains in the furnace, Det. Capt. John Sweeney quoted him as saying Friday.

Sweeney said the short, stocky Wilson, displaying little emotion, told him that he killed his wife, Ethel, 67, with her consent to end her pain from the effects of a stroke and an eye disease.

Wilson was held without charge. Ethel was his second wife, wed to him only last year. His first wife, Bertha, died Aug. 26, 1953, apparently of a heart attack.

Police began searching through the Wilson food market and adjacent living quarters in suburban West Allis Thursday night after relatives became alarmed over Mrs. Wilson's absence.

Sifting furnace ashes, officers found bone fragments, false teeth and a surgical pin which they said matched the one in an X-ray taken after her broken hip was reset last year.

Sweeney said Wilson, questioned Thursday night, at first declared his wife had gone to Mexico with friends but then Friday told of the slaying.

Wilson said he killed Ethel as she took a bath Monday night after they had talked about high hospital bills and her pain, the detective related. Wilson insisted his wife pleaded with him to end her sufferings and that they even discussed her funeral arrangements.

Sweeney stated, but that after she was dead Wilson decided to dispose of the body himself.

Oregon Senator Decides Against Vote Recount

WASHINGTON (P)—Sen. Gordon (R-Ore.) declined Friday to go along with a demand for a recount in his election loss to Democrat Richard L. Neuberger and the case was promptly dropped.

It was Neuberger's narrow victory in Oregon, the last of the Nov. 2 elections to be decided, that gave the Democrats their one-vote edge for organizing the new Senate in January.

The demand for a recount came from Jess J. Gard, Republican national committeeman for Oregon, who said he was acting as a private citizen.

"Less than half of one per cent separated the two candidates," Gard told a reporter. "There could be a mistake."

At The Dalles, Ore., Neuberger called the recount move "an attempt by a little group of embittered men to put a cloud on my senatorial career."

"The people who counted the votes in Oregon," he said, "are honest, upright citizens. The majority of them, incidentally, are Republicans. Oregon's election officials are responsible and ethical—and, also incidentally, the bulk of them are Republicans."

Both Gov. Paul Patterson and GOP chairman Ed Boehlke had said they had no part in the recount proposal and Boehlke said he thought a recount was not warranted.

Senators Of GOP Differ On Gravity Of Split In Party

WASHINGTON (P)—Republicans in the Senate disagreed Friday on whether wounds opened by the bitterly-contested McCarthy censure battle would leave lasting scars on the Republican party.

One pro-McCarthy Republican who asked not to be quoted by name said flatly:

"We will never forgive Sen. Flanders."

Flanders is the Vermont Republican whose original resolution against McCarthy started the censure machinery moving last summer.

The senator who asserted Flanders' wounds would not be forgiven also said he understands pro-McCarthy leaders in the Senate may lead some kind of action against Flanders when the 84th Congress convenes next month.

Questioned on that, Flanders said: "I am prepared to meet any attack on me. I have nothing to conceal."

Sen. Aiken (R-Vt.) said that "if the cover could be rolled back" on the inner machinery of the Senate it could be seen that some sharply conflicting views held by Republican senators on U.S. policy in Asia played a part in the voting.

On final passage of the resolution condemning the conduct of the Wisconsin Republican, 22 Republicans led by Sen. Knowland, of California, the majority leader, voted against condemnation and 22 for.

Governors Urge $25 Billion Road Program For U. S.

WASHINGTON (P)—The nation's governors recommended to President Eisenhower Friday that the federal government spend 25 billion dollars over the next 10 years on an interstate highway system from coast to coast.

A similar program was laid before the conference of mayors here Friday as a means of making room for another 27 million cars on the roads in the next 20 years.

The governors' recommendations were presented to Eisenhower by Gov. Robert F. Kennon of Louisiana, who told newsmen the hope is that states will contribute an additional 25 billion dollars over the 10-year period.

The President was reported to be "very pleased" with the program submitted to him.

Gen. Lucius D. Clay (ret.), chairman of the President's Advisory Committee on a National Highway Program, outlined another plan to the mayors, proposing that 26 billion dollars be spent by the federal government over the same period of time as a supplement to state and city highway development.

U.S., Allies Plan Means To Try To Get Release Of Red Held Airmen

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (P)—The United States and its allies in Korea agreed Friday night to place before the U. N. Assembly at the earliest possible moment the case of the 11 American fliers held as spies in Red China.

This decision was announced by the chief American delegate to the U. N., Henry Cabot Lodge, Jr., after a meeting of the 16 U. N. Allies in Lodge's office. He issued the following brief statement to newsmen:

"We had a meeting of the 16 and there is marvelous and inspiring unanimity on the vital need to get release of the 11 American men and of all others who fought as members of the U. N. Command and are detained in violation of the Korean armistice agreement."

"We reached agreement that we would take the matter up in the General Assembly at the earliest possible date."

Lodge's announcement came shortly after Britain had disclosed it was lining up firmly with the United States in an attempt to obtain the release of the imprisoned aviators.

There was no indication when a case would be filed with the Assembly.

At a meeting of the Allies Thursday, Lodge said the United States wanted the quickest possible action and asked the Allies for their views as to the best course. The meeting Friday night was the second secret huddle.

A Foreign Office spokesman said in London that the British government agreed with the United States that action in the United Nations on his problem is desirable and the government is in consultation as to what form this action should take.

British Minister of State Anthony Nutting, chief of the United Kingdom delegation to the U. N., met with Henry Cabot Lodge Jr., United States, and the other top delegates shortly after Lodge had a long conference with Secretary of State Dulles.

Three Demos Seek Election As National Party Chairman

NEW ORLEANS (P)—Democrats Finnegan, president of the Philadelphia City Council, before them in a session that Jake More, Iowa committeeman, said might produce a bloc vote for one of the three.

Butler, who has the evident backing of Mitchell, was regarded as the leader in the contest at this point, despite reputed opposition to his candidacy by former President Harry S. Truman. Truman was represented by friends here as likely to be satisfied with either DiSalle or Finnegan, who is hospitalized after an operation and whose campaign apparently is suffering from that fact.

Butler's supporters contended he has pledges from 57 committee members but it seemed evident that many of these were awaiting some sign from Adlai E. Stevenson, the 1952 presidential nominee, and from Rep. Sam Rayburn of Texas, who will be speaker of the House in the 84th Congress.

Thus far Stevenson, who will address the party faithful at a $100-a-plate dinner winding up the conference Saturday night, has maintained a hands-off attitude in the battle over the chairmanship. Rayburn can be expected to speak, if he does at all, for most of the Southern delegates, as well as many from other sections.

The Midwesterners summoned Butler, Indiana national committeeman, DiSalle, former price administrator, and representatives of

Physicians Hope For Recovery

VATICAN CITY, Saturday (AP)—Five medical experts early Saturday said there is still hope for the recovery of Pope Pius XII from his desperate illness.

A brief special medical bulletin said the "perceptible improvement . . . has continued in such a manner as to permit good hope" that the 78-year-old pontiff would survive his grave illness.

This optimism was dampened somewhat by the oral statement of a highly placed medical source afterwards making clear that the Pope's immediate condition of the past few hours has shown deterioration and he remains in acute danger. The official medical bulletin was issued 48 minutes after Friday midnight.

The official early Saturday statement at the Vatican press office said:

"At the request of the pontifical physician, Prof. Riccardo Galeazzi-Lisi, a consultation has taken place in which have participated: Prof. Raffaele Paolucci di Valmaggiore, Prof. Antonio Gasbarri, Dr. Paul Niehaus and Dr. Luigi Vittorio de Stefano."

"The doctors were able to ascertain that the perceptible improvement which manifested itself this morning has been continuing in such a way as to leave good hope."

The doctors, aside from Swiss Dr. Niehaus, were described as Italy's leading specialists.

Reports at midnight said the gathering of doctors might be considering the possibility of surgery.

An official Vatican spokesman said that when the consulting physicians came out of the Pope's apartment they seemed relieved and that, in particular, Prof. Galeazzi-Lisi appeared more hopeful.

Reporters waiting in St. Peter's Square after the Vatican closed were summoned back for the special statement.

Despite the official statement, a medical source said that as the Pope went through the second night of the worst health crisis in the 16 years of his pontificate, his condition was "not good."

Informed sources said it was first believed when the Pope suffered a collapse Thursday that there was a cancerous mass in his intestine. X-rays taken that day showed this was not so.

But, these sources said, the Pope is still threatened by a perforated ulcer. There was some evidence that this may already have happened. In that event surgery might be essential despite the Pope's extreme weakness.

It was the second time Galeazzi-Lisi appeared more hopeful. (Continued On Page Eleven)

A POSITIVE COMMUNITY NEED

There is now well in progress a campaign in Jacksonville and the surrounding area to improve the hospital facilities of the community. If this campaign is successful every local resident stands to benefit, directly in time of need for hospital service, and indirectly every day through the years.

The campaign of which we speak is, of course, the drive to raise $750,000 for the purpose of modernizing Our Saviour's hospital. The plans do not call for enlarging the present hospital by increasing the number of beds but do involve the construction of a modern fireproof, air-conditioned wing to replace the antiquated sections of the hospital, part of which is 115 years old.

Our Saviour's Hospital, which has since 1896 been caring for the sick and injured of this region, is conducted by the Sisters of the Holy Cross, a Catholic order devoted to unselfish service to all mankind. Our Saviour's Hospital is, in a very real sense, a community institution of charity. It serves all men, women and children regardless of their religious beliefs and regardless of their financial status.

Medical science has made tremendous strides in recent years to alleviate human suffering and to prolong life. Many of the newer surgical procedures and healing techniques, however, require up-to-date hospital equipment and facilities. The proposed modernization of Our Saviour's hospital, like the new Passavant hospital, will help meet this requirement, thus making available to every person in this area many of the advantages of improved care and treatment which might otherwise be unobtainable.

Our Saviour's Hospital building program is designed to meet a positive community need. It deserves the generous support of everyone who believes that the future of the Jacksonville area merits long range investments in better hospital service.

Boyle's Column

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP)—Reflections of a Pavement Plato:
There is a sudden new surge of interest in America in how one can live to be 100 years old.

The gland meedlers and the nostrum peddlers are pumping up the idea now that the average man should breeze through an entire century before the wheezing breath of the whippers into his dulling ear. "Tag, boy, you've had it."

To these pseudo-medical dreams of a youth or girlish antiquity for all, I cry rubbish. Who yearns for a world in which the ordinary guy is born with the depressing prospect he will live to be 100 years old, whether he needs them all or not?

The big new idea now is that with proper nutrition and fresh forms of abracadabra—including a wary avoidance of chickenpox while young—a man cannot only expect to live to be 100 but be hale and happy right up to the end. Presumably he then will just fall apart all at once, worn out smoothly and equally in all parts, like the wonderful one-hoss shay that lived 100 years and a day.

There seems historically to be built into every species of animal life an inferior pattern that determines how long the individuals of that species will endure. Man has one of the longest of all life patterns. But is there any particular reason for trying to stretch this pattern so that most people will live to be 100 or older?

For the life of me I can't see why. To most of us, since we cannot live forever, it is more important to use our time on earth well rather than to cheapen our golden days by stretching them into a longer pester string.

Here are some suggestions on how to get more out of life by trying to keep from living to be 100 years old.

1. The human heart has only about 2 billion—or is it 3 billion?—beats built into it. Wear it out by making it beat a bit faster for something you believe in besides yourself.

2. Count no day lost on which you fail to get your proper dose of vitamins but are surprised by fun.

3. Don't miss the pleasure of wandering in today's fog by staying in bed to save your strength for tomorrow's sunshine.

4. It is better to explore life half-sick about than it is to lie on your back reading a book on how to be healthy.

5. Remember that time isn't a calendar on a wall but a clock that ticks within you, that moments of flooding joy are better than barren years, and a crowded hour that measures your mettle as a man will make you a wiser life than the pointless, purposeless endurance of an empty century.

Life becomes a form of death when fierceness dies in the purpose of the heart; the turning pages of the calendar cease to be a chronicle and are a daily epitaph of one who has put mere existence above the art of living.

Some Giant Hives Are Hereditary, Others Believed to Be Result of Allergies to Food

BY EDWIN P. JORDAN, M. D.
Written for NEA Service

A puzzling and not uncommon disorder is that known as giant hives or angioneurotic edema.

Q—Please discuss giant hives. Are they curable and what causes them? I know a young man who has had them for 14 years.

A—This is a condition which is characterized by the sudden appearance of swellings of the skin or mucous membranes, limited to a particular area, and frequently disappearing in about 24 or 36 hours. One form appears to be hereditary in nature. Others are believed to be the result of allergies to foods though it is often difficult to tell which food is responsible. Almost any area can be involved but the lips, skin around the face, hands, tongue and feet are most commonly affected. The hereditary form is serious but the other usually, or at least frequently, disappears after a few attacks. The cause of the nonhereditary type is probably an allergy and related to ordinary hives. Treatment is difficult and comparatively unsatisfactory but someone like the young boy referred to in the inquiry must simply keep on trying.

Q—I am 51 years old. About a month ago all of my joints started cracking in an alarming manner. Every movement I make regardless of what part of my body I move produces this cracking sound. There is no pain. Mrs. G.H.

A—Painless cracking of a joint such as knee or jaw is by no means unusual and is probably due to the snapping of ligaments across the joint. This sudden appearance of multiple cracking joints is unusual and I cannot guess at what caused it. As long as no other symptoms appear, however, it is probably nothing to worry about.

Q—Another fellow and I had an argument about doctors. Does a psychiatrist have to be a doctor of medicine? I say a psychiatrist is a doctor of the mind.

A—A psychiatrist is a doctor of medicine and takes the regular medical course before specializing in the field of psychiatry which is a branch of medicine dealing with mental disorders.

Q—If radioactive iodine is taken to determine whether a person has a thyroid condition, can it injure the throat tissues? Mrs. E. D.

A—It seems extremely unlikely that enough radioactive iodine would be given to cause any injury to the thyroid gland or any of the tissues surrounding it.

Q—I am 72 years old and have high blood pressure which goes up and down. Would it be dangerous for me to take an airplane trip?

B. S.

A—Probably it would be perfectly safe especially if you went in a plane with a pressurized cabin; however, it would be best for you to consult your physician first before taking the trip.

Reorganized Export-Import

Bank Is Back Where It Began

BY PETER EDSON
NEA Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON—(NEA)—The Eisenhower administration is now looking for a good Democrat—yes, that's right, a Democrat—to complete the five-member board of directors for the Export-Import Bank. When this vacancy is filled the Administration will have closed a circle of reorganizing and then reorganizing its $5 billion international lending agency to put it back in the shape it was two years ago, when the Republicans took over.

This experience offers an interesting example of what happens all too frequently when administrations change in Washington and the new team starts moving the beds around just for the sake of making the place look different.

Ex-Im bank, as it's known for short, was originally run by a five-man bipartisan board of directors. The Eisenhower administration decided this was unnecessary and put a single managing director in charge. The man selected for this job was retired Maj.-Gen. Glen E. Edgerton.

He was a soldier buddy of the President's an engineer officer with a brilliant record, but with no experience whatever in the field of international finance. He naturally had to depend on some of the old hands to show him what it was all about.

Two of the former directors, Republican Lynn W. Stambaugh and Democrat Hawthorne Arey, were retained as deputy and assistant to General Edgerton. They are now being promoted back to their old jobs as directors in the re-organization. General Edgerton will be president and board member.

Republican Vance Brand, Urbana, Ohio, banker who headed a businessman's advisory committee of more than 100 that recommended the re-organization, has just been sworn in as a fourth director, leaving the one vacancy still to be filled by a Democrat. Ex-Im bank will then be back in business as it was, only bigger and better.

In the early days of the new administration however, the intent was to whittle it down and cut out the business of throwing millions of dollars around in foreign loans. One of the toughest internal fights of the Administration was on whether to shore up tottering Brazil with a $300 million loan. The State Department, which favored the loan, finally got it through.

Two Things Happened Subsequently to convince the Administration that the foreign loan program might not be such a bad thing—particularly for Latin America.

The first was the South American tour of Milton Eisenhower, the President's brother. He came back recommending substantial increases in public loans for Latin American development.

The second was a South American mission headed by Sen. Homer Capehart (D., Ind.), chairman of the Banking and Currency Committee. Other members were Senators John W. Bricker (R., Ohio) and Allen Fearer (D., Del.). They came back and to the surprise of nearly everyone, recommended an increase of Ex-Im loans.

Senator Capehart then took the lead in putting through legislation to increase Ex-Im bank lending authority from $4.5 billion to $5 billion and to restore its five-man board of directors.

In The Past Month, the bank has shown new signs of life. It has announced a $100 million credit to an American Smelting and Refining subsidiary for development of Peruvian copper. And it has inaugurated a new type "line of credit" loan to U. S. exporters to help them finance foreign sales of capital equipment.

First of these loans is a $4 million credit to Oliver Corp. of Chicago for farm equipment sales. The second is to Combustion Engineering of New York for steam boilers. Applications from other companies are under study and may be announced soon.

This stepped-up activity for Ex-Im bank is really about the only tangible economic encouragement to the U. S. has to offer Latin America at the Rio conference which convened Nov. 22.

The Administration's new plan will then be back in business as it was, only bigger and better. In the early days of the new administration however, the intent was to whittle it down and cut out the business of throwing millions of dollars around in foreign loans. One of the toughest internal fights of the Administration was on whether to

New England Inn Plans

Traditional Christmas Dinner

BY GAYNOR MADDON
NEA Food and Markets Editor

How about Christmas dinner in the New England tradition? Let's look in at the inn at Andover, Mass., on the grounds of Phillips Academy, founded in 1778. The gracious red brick Andover Inn with its striking white columns, snow on the ground and the fragrance of wonderful Yankee food creates the mood.

Here is part of the inn's Christmas menu:

Menu: Cranberry nut bread, roast native turkey, baked maple leaf ham and cider sauce, pumpkin pie, Indian pudding, all have a colonial heritage.

There will be apple cider, too. Cider was so popular in 18th century New England that every good farm had its own cider mill. History records that one Unkequer, Col. Ebenezer Crafts who founded the Publick House in Stroudsburg was famed for his power to lift a barrel of cider and drink from the bung-hole.

The following two recipes are from the chef at Andover Inn:

Cranberry Nut Bread
Two and one half cups of all-purpose flour, 2 3 cup sugar, 31 teaspoons baking powder, 1 teaspoon salt, 1 teaspoon soda, 1 teaspoon cinnamon, 1 cup orange juice, 1 beaten egg, 4 cup milk.

Mix ingredients and add 4 tablespoons melted butter or margarine, 1 cup chopped nuts, 14 cups cranberries, 1 tablespoon grated orange peel. Bake in a 9x5-inch (approximately) loaf pan.

Sweet Potato Valencia
Take 4 large Valencia oranges. Cut in half and remove about 2 3 of the pulp. Boil and peel about 6 medium-sized sweet potatoes. Mash and whip thoroughly with butter or margarine, salt and pepper and 2 tablespoons honey. Fill oranges to a peak Heat in 375 degrees F. oven. When done, add 1 marshmallow that has been cut in small pieces to the top of each. Return to the oven for a few minutes. Serve piping hot.

SUNDAY'S DINNER: Baked ham, cider sauce, sweet potatoes Valencia, snap beans, buttered white onions with parsley, cranberry nut bread, hot rolls, butter or margarine, olives and relish, Indian pudding, a la mode, coffee, tea, milk, cider, after-dinner mints.

There Are Many Ways for Wife to Earn Money at Home

Here is a letter from a woman reader who wants to know if I can suggest any way that she can earn money at home. She has small children she doesn't want to be away from all day. And yet the family needs the money she feels she could be earning somehow, if she only knew how.

That type of letter comes to this column so frequently that today I am going to list some of the "at home" jobs I happen to know women are doing successfully in my own community.

One mother of four has made a success of a morning nursery school. Since she still has one child under school age she has not only created a job for herself, but is providing playmates and planned activity for her own child.

Another bakes big, beautiful cakes on order. She gets plenty of orders, too, from mothers planning birthday parties, from organizations that like to eat when they meet, and from hostesses who find it easy to serve a delicious homemade cake—so long as it is made in someone else's home.

WHAT DO YOU HAVE TO OFFER?
Still another specializes in the sort of food appropriate for cocktail parties, and one of the things that has made her venture successful is that she can get the makings of a party together in short order.

Another makes fish covers and draperies. All of these women have two things in common. They have children and so are "tied down" and yet they all want to earn money. None of these ideas may appeal to you. But they may suggest one thing. That if you want to earn money at home, the first step toward making your wish a reality is to sit down and figure out what service you can offer that your neighbors or townspeople are willing to pay for.

PITTSFIELD—Charles Getts, 81, died at the home of his son, Ernest Getts on West Washington street at 7:15 Thursday, following an illness with which he had been confined to his bed for three months.

He is survived by his wife, Sarah Getts; two sons, Ernest of Pittsfield and Earl of Santa Cruz, Calif.

Four New Homes

Four new homes are in the course of construction, with work progressing slowly on account of the inclement weather. Mrs. Dan Rose, recently widowed, is building a home on Kellogg street for her own occupancy. Her son, Dan, Jr., and wife have a house under construction on south Clarksville Road where they will make their home when it is completed. Mr. and Mrs. Irl Robinson are building a home on West Fayette street and Mr. and Mrs. Harold Stricker have the foundation laid for a new home on the same street and in the same neighborhood.

Fire At New School

The fire department was called to the new high school building now under construction at the south end of Jackson street on Wednesday evening at 5 o'clock and soon extinguished a small fire which was checked by the volunteer fire department before any appreciable damage resulted. The origin of the fire is not known.

Interpreting The News
By J. M. ROBERTS
Associated Press News Analyst

In the first years of the cold war people of the free nations were constantly irked because the foreign policies of their governments developed primarily as reactions to Soviet acts.

There was a constant demand that the West take the initiative. The West having demobilized its armies and mothballed its arms, was in no position to take the initiative. The best it could do was conduct a holding operation. Up until a couple of years ago its only major initiative had been to organize a new West German government. Russia countered with one for East Germany. Now that process is being resumed.

Take the Russian reaction to the development of military unity in Western Europe, and the Red Chinese reaction to the Southeast Asia and Formosa defense pacts. For years the Reds tried to prevent creation of a European Defense Community, and their alternate blandishments and threats undoubtedly were a factor in its failure.

But now, with Western European Union facing a far better chance of ratification that EDC ever had, the Reds can think of nothing except countermove. Their threat to organize a centralized military force of their own is an empty one, since Russia has held the central control for years. But they are making it. They do so, of course, merely to back the further threat that they will drop negotiations for peaceful settlements unless the West drops WEU. That is an empty threat, too, since Russia has always conducted such negotiations for purposes of disruption, not for peace. They have created more embarrassment than hope among the Allies.

To offset the Southeast Asian agreements, the Chinese Reds proposed an all-Asia pact excluding the Western sponsors of SEATO. Now, to offset the new American Formosan defense arrangement, the Reds have let word leak out that they are holding conferences to plan their defenses against a possible Nationalist Chinese invasion of the mainland.

All this represents a diplomacy of direct confrontation by parallel action. It has no real meaning, except as part of the propaganda line that the Reds are defending themselves against an outside menace. And too many provocative acts have made that line increasingly ineffective.

Broke Probation;
Sent To Prison
4 To 8 Years

Loren Day, 30, a Jacksonville man, was sentenced to the penitentiary for not less than four years nor more than eight years, in circuit court Friday morning. Day was accused of violating the terms of probation, to which he was admitted after a grand larceny conviction more than a year ago.

Earlier this week Day stood trial on a charge of burglary, with a result that the jury disagreed and was discharged.

State's Attorney Albert Hall presented facts before Judge Wilhite Friday morning in asking that Day's three years' probation be terminated. The record showed that in October, 1953, the defendant was admitted to probation in connection with the theft of seven hogs from a Morgan county farmer. On Sept. 1, 1954, Day attempted to burglarize the Klump Old Co. on North Main street, according to the state's attorney, an act which violated the terms of probation in the grand larceny case.

A sentence of nine months at the Illinois State Farm was meted out to Lloyd Miller of Jacksonville in county court Thursday, where he was brought up to face an accusation that he violated the terms of his probation.

Miller was admitted to probation for a period of two years on Oct. 23, 1953, on a charge of cashing a worthless check. The state's attorney's office charged that on Sept. 5, 1954, Miller violated probation by putting over another bad check.

THE STATE versus PAUL M.

This scene is all too common in American courts. It is the fateful climax of the problem we call JUVENILE DELINQUENCY. But there is another, an earlier scene, which has never been photographed. It happens so quietly, with so little drama, that no photographer has tried to catch it. In the case of THE STATE versus PAUL M. it happened fifteen years ago. Paul was a little shaver then. It was early on a Sunday morning, and the church bells were ringing.

Paul heard them as he played quietly in his room. They were a reminder that this was the morning he must be very quiet, because Daddy and Mama must catch up on their sleep. Daddy heard them and pulled the covers over his ear. "Why," he thought, "must they ring them for Sunday School as well as Church?" Mama heard them; and got up to start the coffee. God heard them, too. And only God knew that in this tranquil scene, which His bells left undisturbed, sentence had been passed in the case of THE STATE versus PAUL M.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL... ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Bedside Bulletins On Radio Give Conflicting, Confusing Reports

By WAYNE OLIVER

NEW YORK (AP)—How sick is radio? What are its chances of surviving in a television era? Conflicting diagnoses have been heard in recent days from several top industry figures—who should know the answers. But out of these confusing bedside bulletins these appear to be the facts:

1. Network radio business has been declining and some in the industry have raised the question of whether all four nationwide chains will survive.

2. Individual stations have been holding their own or gaining, and over-all radio broadcast business is near record levels, or close to half billion dollars a year.

3. Radio, according to Nielsen audience surveys, still reaches more people in daytime hours than television, but TV moves into a big lead at night.

The controversy was touched off recently when David Sarnoff, board chairman of Radio Corp. of America and the subsidiary National Broadcasting Co., told NBC affiliates there is "only one direction, incoherence, for radio networks to go, and that is down instead of up." He added that "it may yet be possible to eke out a poor existence for radio networks but I don't know."

This brought roars of protest from heads of other networks, including a particularly tart comment from Dr. Frank Stanton, president of Columbia Broadcasting System. His network's publicity office issued a release quoting him as saying "Those who do not believe in radio should make way for people who do." But the same office 14 days later issued another release beginning "CBS radio will reduce cost-to-advertisers of its network, evening 20 per cent" two weeks from that date. It was one of several reductions in radio network night rates since TV began cutting into evening audiences.

Meanwhile, Sarnoff's comments had led to speculation that NBC might be planning to drop its radio network, and he followed up with a statement saying that if any nets dropped out NBC "would be the last, and not the first, to abandon the field." He added that his intention in his earlier talk was to "call attention to the realities."

COMMENTS ON THINGS & STUFF

Mother, you will like this.

We have a stock of "Glo-Wax" candles that will make a beautiful table decoration. The whole candle glows when lighted, casting a soft, mellow light. We have these candles in several very interesting color arrangements, for only $2.25.

Or, if you wish to make your own "Glo-Wax" candles we have the complete "fixings" as well as the instructions. So, if you wish to make a gift for some one you can then give them something that is really different, something that will be appreciated both because of its beauty and its usefulness.

Better hurry, though, 'cause 't will soon be Christmas.

California Club Reviews Book For Pittsfield Club

PITTSFIELD—The Book Club held its November meeting on Wednesday, beginning with a luncheon at the Community Center, after which the group went to the home of Mrs. Helen Kelly for a program. Mrs. David C. Williams who was on the program for a book review, brought a surprise guest artist, Mrs. Blanche Ulrich of Los Angeles, Calif., in her stead as book reviewer. Mrs. Ulrich is a sister of Circuit Judge A. Clay Williams, and is visiting him at this time. She entertained the club with a number of readings presented in her well known inimitable style.

Enroute To Paris Robert Niebur, serving with the Signal Corps of the U. S. Army, since his graduation from the University of Missouri in February, has completed his initial training course at Fort Bragg, N. C., and has now terminated a 40 day leave, which he spent with his wife and baby son in Quincy and with his mother, Mrs. Gladys Niebur of this city and other relatives. He was taken to St. Louis by members of the family on Tuesday afternoon where he boarded a plane for LaGuardia Field, and will sail from Camp Kilmer for Paris, France, to which place he has been assigned for further service. He hopes to be able to have his family with him there in the spring.

"Women And Their Money" The Sorosis Club, a literary organization of which Mrs. Allen Metternich is president, held its November meeting at the rural home of Mrs. Ray Peters, a mile north of the city on the Griggsville road on Wednesday afternoon. The program featured a panel discussion on "Women and Their Money," which brought out some interesting views from the members. Panel members were Miss Elsie Cooper, Mrs. Henry Ayers, Mrs. William Karsner and Mrs. John McAllister. A social hour followed the program while the hostess served refreshments.

Bill Lane graduated from Pack 113 into Scout Troop 113 and was presented his scout neckerchief by Assistant Scoutmaster Morris Gotschall. Johnny Little was inducted into the pack with a ceremony conducted by Harold Hembrough. The trophy for achievements was won by Den 1, Mrs. Elizabeth Trotter and her Cubs. The attendance flag was won by Mrs. Gladys Jarrett's Den 3. The next dance at South Jacksonville will be Saturday, Dec. 4.

Changes Affecting Education Heard By Lincoln P.T.A.

The P. T. A. of the Lincoln elementary school was held at 7:30 p.m. on Tuesday Oct. 30.

At the business meeting held before the program it was voted to subscribe to the P.T.A. Scholarship Fund and by doing so, Miss Joephine Milligan was made a life member.

It was decided that a Christmas treat be provided for all the children of the school and that parents be asked to donate trees for the rooms so that each room would have its own Christmas tree.

The program "Changes in the Community and Home Affecting Education" was presented by a panel composed of Dr. Baus, minister, John Wright, parent, Mrs. Helen Dairs, social worker, and Miss Vivian Albright, teacher, with Ellis Brant as moderator. Brant opened the discussion by stating that he had always heard that only two things were certain, "death and taxes," but that now he thinks that change could be added to that list. Dr. Baus said that we are living in a changing world... the horizons are much greater, there is more demand on our time and that the changes affect our children. We are aware of the changes, and being aware we can better deal with them.

Wright placed emphasis on the parent and said that the parent should accept their responsibility for their child rather than the school member.

Mrs. Dairs stressed the needs of the borderline families who are too often overlooked. Mrs. Albright spoke of the different opportunities children have today. There is less work to be done in the homes and more time for learning. Increased travel, radio and television have increased opportunities for learning.

At the close of the program refreshments were served in the dining room from a table which was decorated by Mrs. Eleanor Hassell. The fourth grade room mothers were assisted by mothers from Miss Milligan's and Mrs. O'Brien's rooms. There will be no December meetings of the P.T.A. The next meeting will be held the fourth Tuesday in January.

XXXV
NEXT morning Greg found it hard to tear himself away from the activities of the town, so genuine that it was incredible to realize he had been responsible for them himself, and go to Daggett. The old man was already awake, in an exuberant mood, and determined to miss nothing that was going on. For the first time in weeks—for the last time, perhaps—Greg dressed him and, after he had eaten his breakfast, helped him to walk a little.

He clung to Greg's arm, his eyes roving alertly. "This is what it was like," he said in a tone of satisfaction.

"I figure," Greg told him, "that the best vantage point will be that big window in the hotel lobby. That will give you a box seat for everything that goes on because the telecasting of the speech and the parade will be done there."

He tightened his hold on the old man's arm as the boardwalks began to fill up with men in riding boots, their spurs jingling. Daggett tired soon and made no objection when Greg steered him into the hotel and settled him in a comfortable armchair.

Rupert came up in costume, looking dashing but nervous. Like Greg, he was aware that with the arrival of Horace Crain, he must change his allegiance, that the break with Wade Daggett lay at hand.

"I have been wondering, sir, how one says thank you for a new life."

"By using it," Daggett told him. "Really using it. I don't mind mistakes but I do hate waste!"

Kirby joined them, dapper, alert, in high spirits, and the lobby of the hotel began to fill up with technicians, while photographers set up their cameras.

Long before the stage coach, the covered wagon, and the chartered buses had arrived from the station, a steady line of traffic came across the Badlands, raising a cloud of yellow dust: new cars, old cars and a surrey, a few Indians on ponies. The Chamber of Commerce cowboys swaggered down the road and a man came from the stable bringing a horse bearing a side saddle.

Daggett leaned forward, gripping Greg's arm. "There they come," he said in excitement. "On your way, young man."

Dust swirled in the distance, a horseshoe struck a pebble with a ringing sound, there was a chorus of "Yippee" and a rattle of shots, and around the bluff came the stagecoach at full gallop, the covered wagon swaying behind, accompanied by cowboys, riding, shouting and shooting. Flashlight bulbs went off, the horses reared back as the stagecoach came to a dramatic halt. Greg ran forward to open the door.

HORACE CRAIN stepped out, waved for the photographers, and turned to give Millicent his hand. She, too, faced the cameras, smiling, lovely and gracious. Daggett watched Greg move forward to greet her, his shy smile lighting up his face as he answered her eager questions, and observed with satisfaction that the cornbread king shook hands heartily with his stepson.

Greg introduced Kirby and then stepped back, watching the rest of the passengers alight. "Where's that girl?" Daggett muttered. "I don't see her—oh!"

Kirby had run forward and lifted Hannah out of the back of the covered wagon.

"Oh!" Rupert echoed in a meaning tone.

Kirby had set Hannah on her feet but momentarily forgot to release her. She wore a black divided skirt that swept the ground, and a stiff hat, revealing shining pale hair brushed smoothly. Her eyes looked enormous. Kirby lifted her into the side saddle.

Rupert's lips twitched in sardonic amusement. "At times," he commented to Daggett, "I have cast you in many roles, but I never thought of you as Pandarus."

"Just a little shock treatment," the old man said deprecatingly. "We're on in five minutes," called on of the technicians. There was a bustle, much low-voiced checking of apparatus and frantic running to and fro. The Crains had been escorted to the lobby by Kirby and a stout man who seemed to be on the verge of apoplexy and whose function was not clear to Daggett.

KIRBY stood ready, a different Kirby, the expert, the man who was at home in his job and liked it.

"One minute," Daggett saw Rupert hovering nearby, waiting to meet Horace Crain when the telecast was over. Hannah sat on her horse outside the window, her eyes on Millicent Crain, her dream in shreds like a spiderweb torn by a broom.

The stout man stood with raised arm, eyes on his watch. Then the arm dropped and Philip Kirby said, "This is Phil Kirby speaking and welcoming you to Crain's Canned Cornbread hour and an hour of life as it was actually lived in a pioneer town. But, first, a word from our announcer."

The stout man said, "Yes, friends, we are bringing you America and that great American product, cornbread." He held up a can. "The kind mother used to make."

Daggett, watching the colorful crowds outside, lost trace of the commercial and the crying need for doing something today. His attention was recaptured when Horace Crain was introduced. The great man, who had been beaming benevolently, dried up suddenly, his mouth gaping like a fish out of water. Then he recovered and began to read the speech which had been prepared for him.

HUKILAU IN HAWAII

A FAMILIAR SIGN in many American cafes reads "Fish Fry Every Friday Night," but in Hawaii it's known as "hukilau time." Let's look in on airline stewardess "Mug" Fairfield as she goes to her first hukilau at the Mormon Polynesian colony at Laie on the island of Oahu. Stewardess Phyllis Pacheco guided her. Mug found that hukilau means "pull the leaves," referring to the leaf-fringed nets used in community fishing. When lookouts spot a school of fish, the whole village mans the nets, which are pulled to the shore by ropes. The fish are then fried, but no hukilau is complete without a luau with pig, pineapple and poi. Mug enjoyed the fish fry.

Fun begins with a bus ride as group of musical tourists and Islanders join in songfest.

All hands are needed to pull the net several hundred yards across floor of the bay.

One of the fishermen shows Mug and Phyllis a few of the fish they helped to land.

The girls are trying out the technique for eating one-finger poi, or ground taro root.

Indiana Makes Cage Debut Tonite; Illini Take On Missouri

CHICAGO (P)—Indiana's defending champions and four other Big Ten teams make their 1934-35 basketball debut Saturday night in a 10-game program sending all Conference teams against outside foes.

Michigan, Minnesota, Northwestern and Wisconsin also will be playing first games, while Iowa, Illinois, Ohio State, Purdue and Michigan State engage in a second round of non-conference play.

Indiana's Hoosiers, seeking their third straight Big Ten title this winter, tip off the season at home against McCracken's Hoosiers. The success of Branch McCracken's Hoosiers will depend pretty much on how well 6-10 Don Schlundt can operate without graduated Bob Leonard, Dick Farley and Charley Kraak.

Minnesota's inaugural is against De Paul as part of a Chicago Stadium twin bill also featuring high-powered Iowa against Loyola.

Expect Guglielmi To Lead Irish To Win Over SMU

By HAROLD V. RATLIFF

DALLAS (P)—Young Ralph Guglielmi, rated with the finest quarterback in Notre Dame's glamorous football history, plays his last game Saturday and he's a major reason why the Irish are two-touchdown favorites to beat Southern Methodist.

Handsome Ralph, who does everything for Notre Dame and well, will be making his last appearance for the Irish.

The only game SMU ever won from Notre Dame was in 1951 when the then 17-year-old quarterback was a freshman.

Guglielmi will be playing his twenty-fifth contest for the Irish. It was on a day in 1951 when the Irish were behind 6-0 to Southern California that he first went in at quarterback. He piloted Notre Dame to a 19-12 victory.

In 1952 he divided time with Tom Carey but in 1953 he became the whole show at quarterback. Now they're comparing him with Harry Stuhldreher, Frank Carideo, Angelo Bertelli, Johnny Lujack and Bob Williams, great Notre Dame quarterbacks of the past.

Five times the Irish and Methodists have met on the gridiron and except for last year, when Notre Dame won 40-14, there wasn't more than seven point difference.

But there appears small prospect of it being that close this time as the Methodists come up to the big one—against a Notre Dame team that lost one in early season to Purdue but is rated now among the best teams of Irish history. SMU is without its fine quarterback, Duane Nutt, thus dulling its passing arm materially.

But there'll be a sell-out crowd of 75,000 in the Cotton Bowl because this is the most attractive game SMU ever plays. It also is the nationally televised game of the week.

As Guglielmi prepares to lead the Irish for the last time, there is a quiet confidence in the ranks of the Methodists that he won't make it victorious Coach Woody Woodard of SMU observed: "Our boys are convinced that Notre Dame can be beaten." He intimated he was riding with them on that theory.

SMU has won six, lost two and tied one against Notre Dame's 9-1. The kickoff is 2 p. m. (CST).

Omaha's Shift To Triple A Still Up In Air

By JACK HAND

HOUSTON (P)—Negotiations that would place Omaha in the American Assn. were recessed without a decision Friday but with indication the transfer will be completed within 10 days.

Western League officials and representatives of the St. Louis Cardinals recessed "pending further study."

"We have every reason to believe that our negotiations will be brought to a successful conclusion within the next 10 days," Sen. Edwin C. Johnson, (D-Colo.), Western League president, and Dick Meyer, Cardinal general manager, said in a prepared statement.

The Cardinals have proposed that they transfer the Columbus, Ohio, American Assn. triple A franchise to Omaha, now in the class A Western.

Western League officials originally demanded $100,000 in damages from the association for the Omaha territory but later dropped the figure to $60,000. There were reports Friday they might settle for $50,000.

Senate sessions in Washington had prevented Johnson from participating in the minor leagues convention here this week but he returned Friday and began a series of conferences on the transfer of Denver and Omaha to the American Assn.

The New York Yankees earlier this week sold their old Kansas City Blues franchise to Denver. The association then set into motion machinery to draft the Denver territory.

Until this afternoon's announcement, however, there had been hope negotiations for damages for both the Denver and Omaha territories would be concluded here.

The Omaha-Columbus situation with all its complications was the last business left to be settled as the minor league delegates scattered to their homes. The major leagues headed for New York and next week's meetings, Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday.

Finds New Use For Hot Water Bottle

HARLAN, Ky. (P)—Many men didn't consider themselves well dressed unless they carried a hip flask in the turbulent 20's.

Fashions changed and so did the flask—into a household hot water bottle.

Police found one this week lashed to James Dawson's stomach with a belt. The contraption was hidden by his overalls.

A few sniffs and a further check showed the bottle contained moonshine.

Dawson was fined $37 and given six months after pleading guilty to drunkenness charges and possession of alcoholic beverages.

Consider Tax Hike For Schools, Mental Hospitals

By CHARLES WHALEN

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (P)—State Rep. Paul Powell of Vienna said today he may introduce a bill at the 1955 legislative session to boost the state sales tax 1 cent and earmark the added funds for schools and mental hospitals.

Powell, Democratic minority leader at the 1953 session, said the plan "looks like the only answer" to demands for more state school aid and for money to handle a state welfare institution building program.

Under the proposal which Powell said he is still considering and hasn't definitely decided upon, the extra 100 million dollars a year from the tax hike would be split between schools and the institutions.

"I'm convinced the people never mind a tax increase if they know it's going for a specific and useful purpose," he said in an interview.

Without increasing the 2 per cent sales tax, he added, the state wouldn't be able to put out more cash for welfare buildings and schools in the next two-year budget period.

Powell said he believes that Gov. Stratton at the legislative session opening in January "has to go for a sales tax increase" to meet budget requests. Republicans will have control of the Legislature.

School aid is one of the toughest problems facing Stratton and the new Assembly. To maintain even the present level of state aid, the school appropriation would have to be raised 40 million dollars over the amount voted by the 1953 Legislature.

Powell said a sales tax boost could be enacted as an emergency measure for two years and dropped after it weren't needed any more.

Stan Musial of the St. Louis Cardinals has hit 510 two-base hits during his major league career. He hit 42 doubles in 1954.

Routt Drops PMBC Battle To Bearcats; N. Smith Scores 26

The Routt Rockets stayed with a taller Chapin Bearcat team for three quarters last night before falling to the visitors 58-44 in a PMBC Conference contest at the Our Saviour's gym.

The Rockets lost the services of their only big man, Pat Dowling, late in the third period and the big boys paid off for the Bearcats in the final quarter. The Rockets were trailing the visitors 36-32 at the end of the third frame. However, in the final quarter the Bearcats scored 22 points while holding the hosts to 8.

This last quarter drive by Chapin was sparked by Bearcat guard Mattes. He scored 13 of his 19 points in these last eight minutes. Nine of these were from the free throw line.

The top scorer of the evening was Nelson Smith of Chapin who dumped in 26 points. DeVore paced the scoring for Routt with 15 followed by Shannahan with 13.

The Rockets outscored the Bearcats from the field but the free throw line was the difference. This was Chapin's fifth win of the year.

Chapin won the preliminary 36-27, Coop scored 12 for Routt and Goffinet 12 for the losers.

SPORTS TRAIL

By MURRAY ROSE

NEW YORK (P)—"If you want some action you gotta call Canada these days."

Our man shook his head sorrowfully.

"Imagine that. The big town and you gotta call Canada to get down a bet. Any other place in this country and you can make a decent sized bet and feel sure you're gonna get paid off. Not here any more. New York is the dearest betting town in the world now."

"You can't get down here for anything over $200 and feel confident you're gonna get paid."

Tears welled in the eyes of our man, a live wire guy who has to have his "action" to be happy.

"When Joe --- beat it out of town a couple of weeks ago without paying off some bets, that was the last straw. He was solid as a rock. Paid off regular like a bank for over 20 years. Then he went and weched. I wouldn't have believed it in a thousand years. He was the last dependable guy you could go to."

"You make a bet here and you gotta sweat it out. So what do you do? You call Canada. That's where the action is. You make your bet and if you win a couple of guys come around to see you and pay you off. If you lose, they'll come around to see you."

We asked our man what sport produced the most "action."

"You kidding?" he replied. "Baseball. That's the sport. The betting must run into the trillions. You get a run for your money. It's televised and it's broadcast. Anything you can see on television, you'll get action on."

"You take a right on television. There'll be a lot of betting. But take the Saxton-Fuentes fight in L.A. the other night. There you had a champion and a contender fighting but it isn't on television. There wasn't much action here."

"Do you wanna know how the government can balance the budget and still have a few bucks left around to play with? All they gotta do is legalize betting on horse racing away from the tracks and put a full card of racing from one of the tracks on TV. They'd take in so much loot they'd have to have a fleet of armored cars scooting around to pick it up."

New York Bond Market

NEW YORK (AP)—The corporate bond market climbed Friday in heavy trading. But U. S. government obligations eased.

"Big Board" volume increased to $49,920,000 par value from $4,000,000 Thursday. Convertible and income bonds were strong, taking their cue from the booming stock market. But investment quality issues also inched upward.

Treasury securities weakened after a firm start in over the counter markets.

New York Stock Market

NEW YORK (AP)—Another new high mark was established Friday by a strong stock market.

It was the second day of buoyant prices, and on average the market went into new high ground since September of 1929.

Just about all sections of the market had a hand in the rise, but there was unusual emphasis on special situations.

Two outstanding stocks were Cities Service up 1 1/2 at 127 1/2 and Du Pont up 1/2 at 166 1/2.

Cities Service proposed a 2 1/2-for-one split.

Du Pont had a high of 169 after a federal court in Chicago threw out the government's anti-trust conspiracy case against Du Pont. Also involved in the government's charges were General Motors up 1 at 92 and U. S. Rubber up 1 at 44 1/2.

All major divisions were higher including steels, motors, railroads, oils, aircrafts, chemicals, and tobacco.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks was up $1.30, the same as Thursday, and closed at $148.90, highest since Sept. 26, 1929, when it stood at $149.40. Highest level on record for the average came Sept. 3, 1929, when it was $157.70.

Each of the three components of the average established new high marks — Industrials up $1.90 at $203.60, rails up $1.10 at $113.90, and utilities up 40 cents at $67.40.

Volume at 3,790,000 shares was third highest of the year.

The American Stock Exchange was higher on volume of 930,000 shares. That compares with 750,000 shares traded Thursday.

PRESSURES FORCE RYE, WHEAT PRICES LOWER

By WILLIAM FERRIS

CHICAGO (AP)—Wheat and rye retreated under quite urgent selling pressure on the Board of Trade Friday, selling at the lowest prices of the week. They rallied a bit from the day's lows but still had fair sized losses at the close.

Oats also were under considerable pressure, although confining losses to less than a cent. Corn dipped slightly but soybeans scored modest gains, mostly on a rally in the final 10 minutes. Dealings were active throughout the day.

Wheat closed 1 1/2 to 2 cents lower, corn 1/2 lower to 1/4 higher, oats 3/4 to 1/2 lower, rye 2 1/4 to 3/4 lower, soybeans 1 1/4 to 1/2 higher and lard 5 to 10 cents a hundred pounds higher.

The selling in wheat was not based upon any specific news item. It came from those who have been holders of the bread grain, in some cases for a fairly long time, and who apparently wanted to get out of their positions.

There appeared to be some short covering in soybeans in the final few minutes of trading. Beans also were helped by news Finland had bought 160,000 bushels and was in the market for an additional 200,000. Bean oil and meal prices held steady in the spot market.

Austria bought 800,000 bushels of corn. Receipts of the yellow grain were fairly heavy at 245 cars. It was reported wheat was being unloaded from a boat at Chicago and corn was being substituted. Corn held firm in the cash market.

CHICAGO LIVESTOCK MARKET REPORT

CHICAGO (AP)—Butcher hogs sold steady to 50 cents higher Friday, most gains averaging out at 25 cents. But some moved slowly at steady to 25 cents lower prices. Salable receipts totaled 9,000.

A top of $19.25 was paid for a few choice 190 to 210 pound butchers. Most choice 180 to 220 pounders moved at $18.25 to $19.10 with 230 to 250 pounders $17.25 to $18.00. Sows sold from $13.50 to $16.00.

Cattle receipts were meager at 1,200 head. Steers sold steady to lower while cows were about steady. A few good light steers sold down to $19.00. Choice yearling steers topped at $25.50.

Utility to commercial cows brought $9.00 to $11.00 with a few young commercial types up to $13.50. Canners and cutters went at $7.00 to $9.00. Vealers sold at $22.00 down.

THROWS ISSUES TO THE PEOPLE—Climbing up the side of a five-story apartment in Berlin, "Human-Fly" Klettermaxe, a West Berlin artist, throws campaign pamphlets down onto Kurturustendam, main street in the British sector. Minister Protests Plan For Toll Roads

A strong protest against construction of toll highways in Illinois has been sent by Rev. John W. Collins, pastor of Centenary Methodist church of this city, to Judge J. Evan Howell, chairman of the Illinois Toll Highway Commission, of Springfield.

Rev. Collins pointed out four reasons why he believes toll roads should not be considered by Illinois. He referred to the State's plans for a series of toll highways, particularly in the Chicago area.

The minister's letter to the toll commission, published with his permission, follows:

December 2, 1954

Judge J. Evan Howell, Chairman, Illinois Toll Highway Commission, Springfield, Illinois

Dear Sir:

I have been quite alarmed for sometime about toll highways in the State of Illinois and in the Chicago Daily Tribune Wednesday, December 1, 1954, I read where your Commission is seriously thinking of using River Road for a part of your toll road. I want to voice my opinion against any toll roads.

First I cannot understand how the Illinois Highway Commission can take over a free road (River Road) which was paid by taxpayers money and then use that road for collecting tolls. There is a very serious principle involved in taking over free roads. Whether you take four miles or 400 miles you will be setting a precedent. Any road in Illinois could become a toll road at the Commission's discretion.

This means that any free road could easily become a toll road. How can we justify a free road becoming a toll road for the benefit of private capital?

Secondly, I am against toll roads because according to the Farm Bureau reports for each one mile of toll road built, 36 acres of taxable ground are no longer taxable. This means that taxes will have to be raised in order to meet the expenses of our counties, townships and cities. This is a serious threat to the already heavy expenses of government.

Third, I am against toll roads because the ground used in toll roads will be needed for cultivation to take care of the increased population of the United States.

Fourth, I am against toll roads because there are very few roads in this section of the United States that can withstand 40 years of service and climatic weather changes.

Most widely distributed tree in North America is the American aspen.

Without extensive repairs, I am afraid at the end of 40 years that our toll roads will be as obsolete as our roads are now, that are 40 years old.

Health Director Says Fluorine Is Natural Aid To Dental Health

The use of fluorine in drinking water to prevent tooth decay is an outstanding example of one of the most encouraging developments in modern medicine—the shift in emphasis from cure to prevention, Dr. James W. Chapman, Morgan County health director, said Friday in commenting on the proposal to add fluorine to the Jacksonville water supply.

W.S.C.S. Meets
The members of the W.S.C.S. of the Winchester Methodist church held their regular December meeting at the church Thursday, beginning with a potluck luncheon at 12:30. A gift exchange was held by the group in keeping with the Christmas season.

Mrs. Earl Nelson and Mrs. Paul Lehman were in charge of the program and devotions for the evening, the topic was "Peace." During the business session presided over by the president, Mrs. Paul E. Markille, plans were completed for the turkey supper and bazaar to be held December 8 and plans were made for the participation in the special effort which is being made for church attendance through the months of January, February and March, the pre-Easter season.

Hostesses for the occasion were Mrs. Ada Krueger, Mrs. Herman Flynn, Mrs. Everett Dunham, Mrs. William Kirkpatrick and Mrs. Clifford Kilver.

New officers for the year were elected as follows: president, Mrs. Reva Garrison; vice president, Mrs. Verna Killebrew; secretary, Miss Frances Chubree, and treasurer, Mrs. Frances Robinson.

Games were played and a gift exchange held in keeping with the Christmas season, and Mrs. R. R. Jones, teacher of the class, was presented with a gift.

At the close of the meeting refreshments were served by the hostess assisted by members of her circle.

Martin L. Hubbs Expires Friday At Our Saviour's

Martin Luther Hubbs, 83, died Friday at 3 p.m. at Our Saviour's hospital.

Hubbs was born Sept. 1, 1871 in the Pisgah community, and was the son of Joshua and Rachel Acres Hubbs. He was twice married. His first wife, Edith B. Wright, of Virginia died in 1936 and to this union two children, a son and a daughter, were born. The son died in infancy. He later married Annabelle Harmon, and she preceded him in death May 15, 1954.

He is survived by one daughter, Mrs. R. S. Abbott, of Alexandria, La., and she was at his bedside when he died.

When a young man he went to northern California and was engaged in the real estate business. He retired in Jacksonville 25 years ago and has made his home at 208 West Morton, but for the past 6 months he lived in the Illinois Hotel.

Funeral services will be held Sunday at 3 p.m. at the Cody and Son Memorial home with the Rev. Clair Malcolmson officiating. Burial will be made in the Pisgah Union cemetery.

The family will receive friends tonight from 7 to 9 p.m.

C.D. of A. Seeks Ideas For Making Money For Drive

A good crowd attended the annual Christmas party Thursday night for the local Catholic Daughters of America held at the K. of C. hall, Father Terrance Tracy and Father D. F. Lydon of Murrayville were guests.

Mrs. Marie Sauer, Deane's president, announced that a pilgrimage will be made to Alexander at 3 p.m. on Wednesday, Dec. 8. Mrs. Longman, grand regent of the court, reminded members that the top rummage sale will be held on Thursday, Dec. 9. She urged those with contributions to be sure and contribute. Mrs. Esther Inoglia or Mrs. Mary Hall, Mrs. Longman also asked for donations of clothing and toys for children of various ages which will be given out through Father Tracy.

The grand regent presented a gift to each of the new members of the court. The court voted to dispense with other committee reports in order to discuss ways to raise funds for Our Saviour's hospital.

Mrs. Lola Anderson made the suggestion of having a community sale of articles that could be solicited from homes of the C. D. of A. members. The suggestion was unanimously accepted by the court.

Also accepted was a suggestion by Mrs. Della McGinnis for holy day cards. Other fund raising projects were proposed and discussed by the group and a tentative amount was set up as a prospective pledge from the court.

Father Lydon led the group in the Rosary and the Litany of the Blessed Virgin. Mrs. Peggy Landon and Mrs. Emily McNeely accompanied and directed the singing of Christmas carols. Mrs. Marjorie Tibbels of Franklin played several Christmas numbers on the saxophone accompanied by Miss Devlin. The Junior C. D. of A. sponsored a bazaar at which many attractive Christmas novelties were sold. Other articles were sold by the senior court.

Mrs. Frances Yording and Mrs. Leona Johnson were co-chairmen of the Christmas dinner. Their committee members were Eleanor Anderson, Teresa Baman, Hilda Becker, Leona Clancy, Betty Cooper, Mary Lou Coleman, Rose Devlin, Frances Dorsey, Margaret Fitzpatrick, Beata Gilmore, Eugenia Kohnle, Ellen Kennedy, Alma Longdon, Mary K. Hogan, Leona Mansfield, Ruth Murgatroyd, Jennie Ryan, Ann Ryan, Irene Roy, Helen Smarjesse, Collette Podshades, Marie Garner, Peggy Vahle, Bess Hamilton, Margaret Perry, Mardelle Feldhauser, Louise Hartney and Catherine Fordan.

The important thing to realize about fluorine, according to Dr. Chapman, is that it is not a medicine, but a necessary nutritional element like iron, calcium and vitamins. The difference is that a medicine is used to cure a condition which has already developed; the use of penicillin in pneumonia is an example. But fluorine does not and cannot cure tooth decay, or even slow down decay once it has started. Its sole function is to prevent tooth decay from developing in small children, by adding a hardening element to the tooth enamel as it forms.

"Anyone who objects to putting fluorine in drinking water," said Dr. Chapman, "should, if he is logical, object to giving his children cod liver oil, which strengthens the limbs and prevents rickets. In fact, he ought to object to eating oranges, which we transport from Florida and elsewhere in order to get the necessary quantities of iron and vitamins. No one would dream of calling oranges medicine, and no doctor would call cod liver oil medicine. It is an essential ingredient of the diet of growing children, and so is fluorine."

Mrs. Minnie Wagener

The family will meet friends tonight from 7 to 9 p.m.

Christian Church Women's Service To Be Broadcast

Both Our Saviours and the Passavant hospital were represented at the meeting.

Those from the immediate vicinity and regional representatives present were Harold M. McCarty, president of the Morgan County Red Cross chapter; Mrs. W. H. Kurtz, Mrs. Leda Lewis, Morgan executive secretary; Clarendon Smith, chairman of the Morgan County Blood Program; Sister Athanasius from Our Saviour's hospital; Mrs. Robert Kaiser, president of the Our Saviour's hospital Auxiliary; Ralph Bersell, administrator at the Passavant Memorial Area hospital; Mrs. Janet Chamberlain, technician at the Passavant hospital; Mrs. W. J. Casler, publicity chairman for the Morgan County Red Cross chapter; Dora Slater, staff member from the St. Louis Red Cross center; Virginia Cagle, Blood Program chairman for Greene county; Leo E. Mize of Springfield Red Cross, field representative; and R. H. Brunner, also from the St. Louis Red Cross center.

The sessions, both morning and afternoon, dealt with the Blood Program, the necessities for its continuance in the various communities, the changes in the financing of recruitment, area eligibility, etc. Springfield, Ill. recently ran from page stories in its leading daily newspaper explaining to Sangamon county residents why they were not on the Red Cross Blood Program and the steps necessary to bring about such an advantage. Springfield's neighbor, Jacksonville, and Morgan county, just recently pulled itself out of the danger zone by contributing 436 pints of blood during the two day visit in October at the Grace Methodist church. This accomplishment put the Morgan county unit on the St. Louis regional Honor Roll for October. This is something to be proud of but most certainly not a reason for relaxing.

The local Red Cross chapter is hoping the same enthusiastic response, so evident during the October visit when many were unable to wait at the church because of not having made advance appointments, will make an appointment to give blood at the December visit despite the fact it will be the busy holiday week.

The December visit will be at the YMCA Youth Center and ample parking will make the visit much easier. Because of a new ruling received just recently from the St. Louis office making the 350 pint quota for Morgan county during the two day visit will be doubly hard. The ruling states: there must be at least 10 weeks between donations and no donor will be allowed to give blood over five times in one year. It is preferred that female donors wait 12 weeks between donations. This ruling, which is really proof to the public of the utmost caution and care involved in guarding health of the donors, eliminates all those who gave blood at the October visit. The 10 week waiting period is short a full seven days. That means blood must be obtained from an entirely different source of donors such as those who possibly never before considered taking the time to give blood and those who have neglected to visit as of late.

It is not too early in the month to phone the local Red Cross office, 1834 and leave your name as a prospective donor and preference of time to give blood either Wednesday or Thursday of the December visit.

Mercedosia Lumber Company Burglarized

Burglars made a large haul of electrical appliances and other merchandise at the Hunter-Allen Lumber Company building in Mercedosia early Friday morning.

A Burroughs electric adding machine and Remington typewriter headed the list of loot. Other things missing included two Sunbeam electric irons, an electric drill, an electric percolator, large pressure cooker, an electric grill, three boxes of pocket knives, three hand saws, three mason's hammers, two carpenter hammers, and $20 from the cash register. A small amount of change was overlooked.

The burglary took place after 3 a.m., as everything at the lumber company building was in usual order when Lynde Martin, Mercedosia watchman, made his rounds at that time.

Deputies Timmons and Crowder said a window in the east side of the building was broken, permitting the burglars to reach inside and unlock the window.

State Depression Bill Will Be Paid In Full On Dec. 15

By ROGER LANE
SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP)—The bill incurred by the State of Illinois to feed and care for tens of its hungry at the depth of the great depression finally will be paid in full on Dec. 15.

On that date, State Treasurer Elmer J. Hoffman will authorize retirement of the last million dollars of 50 million in emergency relief bonds issued in 1932 and 1934.

With interest, the payment will amount to $1,032,500. It will be made as have its predecessors over two decades, with funds withheld from cities and counties out of their shares in state gasoline tax collections.

The funds withheld will be in proportion to sums received for relief purposes immediately after the bonds were sold. Counties and cities which did not benefit are not affected.

Chicago and Cook County, as recipients of over two-thirds of bond proceeds, are the only two governmental units that have been losing the use of sizeable amounts of gas tax funds through withholding and whose monthly allotments will increase significantly in January. In November $28,699 was withheld from Cook County and $24,832 from Chicago.

Hoffman's office reported today that interest charges on the 20 million dollar bond issue in 1932 and the 30 million issue two years later added up to $16,735,750, bringing total interest and principal retirement to $66,735,750.

Despite the demise of the bond issues, a political controversy precipitated by the diversion of gas tax money to service them promises to live on.

In the 1953 General Assembly, six legislators proposed a constitutional amendment which would have prohibited any such diversions in the future. The House approved the amendment, but the Senate shelved it.

The anti-diversionists, led by State Rep. John W. Lewis (R-Marshall), have mustered most of their strength in the past from among legislators representing rural areas. Lewis has indicated he will renew the fight.

During the 1930's gas tax funds were used to finance state aid to schools, as well as relief payments. This form of diversion ended in 1940.

Miss Plumb will be married during the holidays, but will return to Jacksonville and continue her duties here until Feb. 1, at which her resignation will become effective.

Mrs. Ralph Welles, president presided over the meeting. Minutes of the November meeting were read by Mrs. Robert Houston, secretary. The financial statement was presented by Mrs. Robert Schall, treasurer. Mrs. Ralph Heaton, recreational chairman, reported on the recent bus tour to St. Louis.

Mrs. Welles appointed Mrs. Ralph Heaton as chairman of arrangements for the annual Play Day to be held Feb. 23, 1955. There will be a meeting of library chairman Dec. 8 at the Home Bureau office.

After hearing a report of the committee, it was voted to buy a new car for the Home Adviser. Those on this committee were Mrs. Harold Hurrellbrink, Mrs. Robert Houston and Mrs. Harold Stewart.

It was voted to close the Home Bureau office on Dec. 23 for Christmas and Dec. 30 for New Year's in order to give employees a day previous to the holidays.

DANGEROUS GOOSE

ADA, Okla. (AP)—Bernard Baranski, 54, is in a hospital with a fractured hip, but he hates to admit he was injured by a goose. A circus worker, he is quick to add it was a big goose—a 15-foot model.

He was driving a six-hitch team of ponies pulling the Mother Goose float. He turned the team suddenly to avoid hitting a woman and the float struck a bale of hay. The goose fell on him.

Crash Kills 2 Loomi People; Woman Held In Wreck 2 1/2 Hours

Two Loomi residents were killed in a traffic crash that occurred shortly before 9 p.m. last night at the Loomi road intersection at Bates.

The third passenger, Mrs. Clarence Russell, 42, laid in the wreckage for nearly three hours before she was removed to Springfield Memorial hospital. She is suffering from leg injuries and shock.

Dead were her husband, Clarence Russell, 44, and Mrs. Lettie Edwards, 68, a neighbor.

Coroner W. C. Telford, coroner of Sangamon county, said that the accident occurred when the west-bound Dodge car driven by Russell attempted a left-hand turn onto the Loomi road. At the same time a west-bound trailer truck loaded with 30,000 pounds of meat was attempting to pass another car. It struck the Russell car broadside, Telford said.

The impact knocked over two poles of the main A.T. & T. transcontinental wire and the truck landed on top of the Russell car. Early arrivals that attempted rescue work were stymied by the weight of the truck.

Several wreckers, plus a group of jacks, were used to get the truck off of the car.

During all this time Mrs. Russell was huddled in the wreckage. "I don't know what her condition is at this moment," Coroner Telford said early this morning. "But I can't see how she escaped death."

The driver of the truck was George Hooker of Independence, Mo., a driver for a Kansas City, Kans., trucking firm.

Mrs. Russell was taken to Springfield in the McCullough ambulance of New Berlin and the two bodies were removed to the McCullough Funeral Home.

News Wire Down

Shortly before 9 p.m. last night the main cable of the American Telephone and Telegraph company, which stretches along U. S. 36 in Illinois, was knocked out of commission by a serious traffic accident just east of the Loomi road at Bates.

The Associated Press service was halted and was not back in order at midnight although several top-flight A.T. & T. repair crews were working to get the lines in commission again.

This part of the country was isolated from the rest of the world. There was only one way the local telephone exchange could handle long-distance calls, and that was through Beardstown. That exchange was soon bogged down by the heavy volume and calls were as much as two hours late in transmission.
